“ Bill Welch was one who made an ordinary after-school job fun to do. He taught those of us who worked with him at The Fair Dept. Store how to use our manners and selling tactics to make our boss very happy. He was a delightful person to know. Saw him the last time in Ingles pushing a cart and using a walker; there to get his beautiful wife a plate of food she had asked for. That was the Bill I knew: always willing to help in any situation for a loved one or for a stranger. Jill, Brent and Andy sending love and a pat-on-the-back for the many things you have done for your family over these last few years. Just think about the glorious reunion he, your mom and Horace are having. Louise L and Clarence Towe
