“ The family of Jim has my deepest sympathy. I worked for many years at Phillips Fibers in Seneca with Jim. Jim was a man that had many varied interests and could converse in detail about any of them. We usually could not discuss politics as we were usually had different views. However we never allowed out differences in opinion harm our friendship. I always considered Jim a dear friend and had great respect for his loyalty to his wife who had a long illness before she passed away. May the Lord sustain each of you as you grieve the loss of parents and grandparents.
