“ I am just finding out today Ken, I am so sorry you are not with us anymore. I really valued our friendship and still love you brother. Meeting people like you in my adult years certainly helped grow into a better man. Are were a good brother and I'm so sad to hear about this so late. Thank you for the headshots but now you have the eagle eye you always wanted.##imported-begin##Dominique Bell##imported-end##

“ I knew an old girlfriend of yours and I went to Seneca High School. I knew your name and remember thinking that you were cute but a little to old for me. May you rest in peace.

“ Cary & Rachel,
I wish I had words to heal your broken hearts but unfortunately I do not. However, I have a personal relationship with the one who does, the Lord Jesus Christ. We will certainly be lifting you up in prayer that the Lord will sustain you during this very difficult time. Nothing can prepare for losing a love one especially an offspring. We will never know the why in this life but there is coming a day when will know the answer. Again, may the Lord Grace suatain you in the coming days.

“ I feel fortunate to have known Ken the short time that I did. I can only imagine how blessed many of you are who got to know him his whole life. Men like Ken are not the majority. He was a rare and beautiful person who lit up any space he was in. Warmth and generosity radiated from him and everyone around him could feel it. Sending my condolences to his family. And my eternal love and friendship to Ken.###imported-begin##Jennifer Lothrigel###imported-end##

“ I am so sorry. Ken was my first love and I never stopped loving him. He was an amazing person full of hope and grace. I want you to know how much seeing him before he moved to California meant to me. To learn about him again and to see the relationship that he had with God! We went to church and worshipped together. I was fortunate enough to meet his lovely daughter. I received an email from him about a week ago asking me to put together a reference letter to help him secure a job with a parachute company. He loved skydiving since his first jump. May God bless you all. He has taken the sweetest of his angels to rest.##imported-begin##Kay Boyle##imported-end##

“ I have many fond childhood memories of Ken from the Normandy Shores neighborhood. He was a special guy, one of a kind and his contributions to the world will be missed. I am shocked and saddened to hear the news of his passing. My prayers go to his family and children. I viewed some of his photography work, which included a few photos of himself and his children. His son has Ken's smile. I smiled, too. Rest in peace.##imported-begin##Marjorie Ann Ruckle-Mauldin##imported-end##
