“ Six fingersleft behind
missing the ten toes
She loved for 65years
Yet I never saw the tears
I'm sure in the dark when all alone
The flood gates open n flow
No one can know the sorrow felt
No one knows how the heart melts

Empty shoes sit by the fireplace
Most covered in dust
No one made a fuss to clean them
They had no where to go

One brother thought he'd keep them so,
he gathered them in a bag to drag
75 feet behind them to the home
Where he now lived.

His sorrow will be the most profound
Their connection was tightly wound
He'll no longer hear the horn honking
And voice yelling "coño let's go, come help me watch" eyes were weak but kept on movingwith eager help to see.
How can it be this chapters done?
His was a race long and well run.

So very loved by all who knew him
A whole left on earth no one can ever fill.

*Hi I'm his grand daughter Brooke. I was just wondering what do you mean by "airborne buddy"? Did you serve with him? I live in Florida, and didn't get too many chances to pick his noggin about his life.
Thanks.*
