“ Please accept my heartfelt condolences on the loss of your beautiful wife. Even though the sting of death is hard to Bear right now for you and your family, the Bible gives each and every one of us a reassuring hope that is found at John 11:25, where Jesus promises us the resurrection. The scripture allows us to see that death is not permanent and that soon you will be able to see your beloved family member again. Even though Pamlia is asleep in death right now, she is no longer suffering and when she wakes up she will be in perfect health and she will welcome back family and friends with open arms. I hope that these few words provide you with Comfort at this most difficult time.

“ I have so many memories of time spent with Pam I don't know where to begin. We were cousins but without even discussing it, we chose to choose each other as sisters. We had so many good times in high school and I spent about as much time at her house as I did my own. When we were old enough to drive, we both had white Corvairs with red interiors. We thought we were something else! Down through the years we have shared the good and the bad together. Pam worried about me, especially after my husband died. She was 4 months older than me and she would tell me she was my elder and I had better mind her and take care of myself! There is just so much i could say about Pam. She had such a loving heart. She was kind and caring. She was hysterically funny when she chose to be. We tended to spend a lot of time laughing like lunatics. She helped to keep me from falling into a depression so deep I would never have been able to climb out. We could and did tell each other anything and everything and felt totally safe telling those things to each other. I have a hole in my heart big enough to drive a Cadillac through. She was my family, friend, sister, confidante, my sunshine. The sun is hidden behind dark clouds now but we will see each other again soon. Whether Jesus comes or my time to die comes, we will hug and talk and laugh again. Until then, I will hold you in a special place in my heart, sweet Pam. I have always loved you and will continue to love you forever. Keep a watch out. I'm going home with you in the not too distant future. What a glorious day that will be!!!!
Your Loving Sister,

“ Dear family my prayers will continue to be with you. Pam was a co-worker at Kendall. She was a kind and sincere person. Pam always showed love and concern for others. Once you met Pam, you knew that if you did not see her for a long period of time, you had come to know a special lady and friend. She had a very special way of making you feel comfortable and encouraged you to do your best. I will miss my friend. I am so thankful I knew her in her finest hours of life. Without Pam things won't be the same, but there is a higher power that we answer to. Really gonna miss you my friend.
