“ Ursula (AKA Momma) was a kind, loving, but a quiet soul. She was confident in her feelings and always knew what she liked...or didn't like. This characteristic is what drew me to her from the very first time I met her. She had her quiet way of letting you know she thought something was silly or not right. She would give a small “Hmf” and that was all that was needed to let you know how she felt about something. She had a dry sense of humor that would crack you up even if that was not her intent. She also loved her snacks and guarded (hid) them well. You felt very privileged if she offered them to you. I was told stories of when she first came to America and was adjusting to our language and mannerisms. I will cherish those stories forever. She loved her family deeply and will be missed very much. I will be getting a rose bush for my garden in memory of Momma so I can remember her daily. Love you Momma! Watch over us and keep us in-line!
